SEVEN BIG INDIAN BUILDINGS ARE BURNED WITH LOSS OF $60,000

U. and D. Coach Also Consumed by Flames Which Started in Lament's Barn, Presumably From Tramp's Matches—Fleischmanns Fire Fighters Cut Down Loss.

Big Indian was swept by a destructive fire early this morning which wiped out seven buildings, the town shed and an Ulster & Delaware railroad coach, with an approximate fire loss of between $50,000 and $60,000. But for the timely arrival of the Fleischmanns fire department with their new auto fire truck the damage would have been much greater.

From what could be learned over the telephone this morning the fire broke out in the barn of George W. Lament, and soon spread rapidly to the other buildings in the vicinity. All of the buildings in the fire zone are located across the railroad tracks from the Ulster & Delaware railroad station on the left hand side as one approaches the village from Kingston.

Big Indian residents believe that the fire was caused by some one using the barn as sleeping quarters and smoking in the building. There are no facilities for fighting fire in Big Indian and a hurry call was telephoned to Fleischmanns for assistance which met with a prompt response.

While the flames were leaping from building to building neighbors rushed in and helped to carry out furniture and merchandise and several received sprained ankles, but no serious accidents were reported. All of the buildings destroyed were of frame construction and offered no obstruction to the advance of the flames.

The P. J. Bryant general store, which is leased by the Langer Mercantile Company, was one of the buildings in the path of the flames and was destroyed. Above the store are the living apartments occupied by those who conduct the business.

Nearby is the house and garage of Postmaster A. J. Thompson which were burned. The post office is located in a new one story building and is also used for store purposes by Mr. Thompson. This also was destroyed.

The Bryant barn near the general store was burned as well as an ice house and a bowling alley on the Bryant property. The town shed in which is stored the town's road machinery, was also destroyed. Whether any of the equipment was saved is not known.

There was a string of Ulster and Delaware Railroad passenger coaches on the siding near the station and one of the coaches was partially destroyed by fire. The other coaches, however, were moved away from the fire zone in time to prevent them being burned.

The fire was one of the most spectacular in years in the mountains and the flames were seen for a considerable distance. Owing to the rapidity with which the fire spread it was impossible to save much of the contents of the buildings destroyed.

It was impossible to ascertain whether the loss was covered by insurance or not.

The fire was first discovered about 2:30 o'clock this morning.

CLAMBAKE GIVEN IN HONOR OF GROSSMAN

An old fashioned clambake was tendered the Hon. Lowell Grossman in honor of his promotion to the head of the New York State Highway Bureau at Gray's Park, Poughkeepsie, by his friends in Division No. 1. The bake was opened at 4 o'clock and was attended by a large number of people, including First Deputy Schulze and Second Deputy Brandt of Albany, members of the state highway department and division engineers and employes from Utica, Watertown, Albany and Hornell. Senator Webb of Dutchess county was also a guest. William G. Merritt of this city, representative of the Universal Road Machinery Company of Kingston, was among the invited guests. The bake was one of the finest which has ever been served up in the bridge city and was in charge of Peter Lovelock of Poughkeepsie.

LADIES' AID OBSERVES ITS 63RD ANNIVERSARY

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Spring Street Lutheran Church celebrated its 63rd Anniversary Sunday morning. There was a large congregation assembled. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers of the season. The choir rendered appropriate selections and the Rev. A. Schmidtkonz delivered an impressive sermon taking for his text, Hebrews, 10: 23-25. "Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; for he is faithful that promised; and let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works, not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some of us." He said in part:

Dear Friends: You celebrate today the 63rd anniversary of your society and I am glad to be with you once more on this pleasant occasion. You know that I have always taken a lively interest in your noble work, and tried to assist and encourage you.

Sixty-three years ago your society was organized for the purpose of doing more efficient work and rendering more and better service to our congregation and the church at large, than you could do singly, for it is true here and elsewhere that "in union there is strength," and you have given the best proof by what you have accomplished in your combined church activity. You have done much good in promoting the welfare of the church in raising funds, and in beautifying our house of worship. Time and again your society has proved to be a blessing in our congregation, and you are therefore to be congratulated.

For your instruction and encouragement let me speak to you of: Loyalty to Christ and His church. To loyalty to Christ. The apostle Paul even urged us saying: "Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering," and he himself has set a beautiful example of such loyalty before us in his own life, when his life's course was almost run and his life's task nearly completed, he could look back with joy and say: "I have fought a good fight. I have finished my course. I have kept the faith."

Have we kept the faith? Have we been truly loyal to our Lord and master? The thing for us to do is to renew our profession and resolve that from now on we will strive to be more truly loyal to Christ. What occasion could be more suitable for making such decision than this reunion service?

Loyalty to Christ implies loyalty to his church. Christ founded the church. In the church salvation is brought to men through the means of grace, the word and the sacraments. Thus it is plain that loyalty to Christ implies loyalty to his church. Turning away from the church is the same as turning away from Christ. Outside of the church there is no Christ, and no salvation, and there is no salvation in men-made Christless religions.

Loyalty to Christ and his church implies service. Serving the Lord and his church, giving whole-hearted support, to every great movement, rendering the best assistance possible to every worthy undertaking for the furtherance and advancement of your local church and for the Kingdom at large, is the best proof of your loyalty.

Whether it be a society or an individual there is always enough opportunity for service. There is in the church a peace and work for men and women. Women have peculiar gifts that can be used in the service of Christ and his church. There is in the church a crying need for such work which women can do, and do better than anyone else.

And so, dear friends, go forward and later on with new courage. If you work harmoniously together, each one using the gift which God has given her, always aiming at doing the will of your master, and doing your work in the right spirit, you will be in the future what you have been in the past, a great blessing to our church.

Vote Tuesday between noon and 9, p. m., in the official primary.

NEW AUTO PLATES ARE GRAY AND WHITE

Ten Tons of Them Arrive For County Clerk.

County Clerk John H. Saxe received today the Ulster county consignment of 12,500 auto license plates for 1924 from the state tax department. The plates are of battleship gray with white numbers. The plates will be stored in the cellar of the county clerk's office in their containers which are numerically marked and handily piled so they can be easily gotten when the time for beginning their issuance is received from the state tax department.

BANDITS HELD UP MAX MONES

Kingston Taxi Driver Has Thrilling Experience With Stick-Up Men Near Albany Who Help Selves To His Auto—Car later Recovered.

Max Mones of No. 28 Ann street, a local taxi driver, had a thrilling experience with three stick-up men on the road between Schenectady and Albany on Saturday when at the point of a gun they relieved him of his automobile and of what cash he had on his person.

According to the Knickerbocker Press on Sunday three men early Saturday morning stole an automobile owned by J. F. Sullivan of Albany, near Cresent, took a small sum of money and escaped in his machine. Later they met Max Mones who had been taking a fare to Schenectady and was returning to Kingston and after holding up Mones and taking his car they abandoned the Sullivan auto and escaped in Mones's machine.

Sunday police headquarters here received word from the Albany police department that they had recovered Mones's automobile and to notify him to that effect. Later Mr. Mones went to Albany after his machine.

TWO HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. August Nicholas of No. 2 McDonald street, Saugerties, and William Buckman, 10 years old of No. 57 Lawrence street, this city, were injured early Sunday evening in an auto collision at the intersection of Foxhall and Hasbrouck avenues. Both were removed to the Kingston City Hospital. Mrs. Nicholas left the institution later in the evening after having her injuries attended to. The boy is still at the hospital with injuries to his head and leg. They are not expected to prove serious.

According to the police report of the accident Robert Temple of Wappinger Falls was driving an American Six south on Hasbrouck avenue as August Nicholas was driving his Ford east on Foxhall avenue, and the two cars came together. Both cars were badly damaged.

In the Nicholas car was riding Mrs. Nicholas, who was injured, while Daniel Foster and his son, both of Wappinger Falls, and the Buckman boy were riding with Mr. Temple who had been a guest at the Buckman home and was giving the boy a ride.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

A new and virile Charles Ray, with an acting scope and power unknown to many devotees of this star, will be seen at Keeney's today, Tuesday and Wednesday in "The Girl I Loved." It is not widely known that Riley had a dramatic love affair and he described it with great beauty and deep sentiment in "The Girl I Loved."

"Kempy," the comedy by J. C. Nugent and Elliott Nugent, which was one of the best bets of the season on Broadway last year, is to be presented in this city at the Kingston Opera House Tuesday night.

Egyptian scenes with unusual costuming and stage effects are a feature of the Paramount picture, "Bluebeard's 8th Wife," a Sam Wood production starring Gloria Swanson which is due for a three day run at the Orpheum starting today.

The unusual case of an umbrella being saved for a "rainy" day, even though the sun shone brightly, is to be found in "A Daughter of Luxury," whihc will be the feature attraction at the Auditorium. It is a new Paramount comedy starring Agnes Ayres and is heralded as one of the most entertaining productions of the Ayres repertoire.

THIRTY-ONE OF SURVIVORS OF OLD TWENTIETH AT REUNION THIS YEAR

Antietam Day Observed—The Rev. Eugene Hill Re-elected to Presidency Which Office is Combined With That of Chaplain—Those Attending.

Fifty-eight years after the close of the Civil War, surviving veterans of the Old Twentieth Regiment, New York State Volunteers, once more celebrated Antietam Day by holding their annual reunion, election of officers, banquet and campfire in Kingston today.

Only thirty-one of the veterans gathered around the banquet table and after disposing of a turkey dinner, discussed once more the many matters nearest to their hearts. But enough of the comrades brought their wives and daughters to bring the total attendance up to forty-eight.

The annual meeting was held at noon at the Mitchell House parlors. The meeting was presided over by Eugene Hill, president of the regimental association. Payment of dues for the ensuing year was the first order of business, and after discussion of various matters, the election of officers was taken up.

The Rev. Eugene Hill was unanimously re-elected president; Major Alfred Tanner was elected vice president; E. Johnston Nichols was elected secretary and treasurer to succeed Major Tanner, and it was voted to consolidate the offices of president and chaplain.

Dinner was served at Von Berg's Restaurant, Wall street, at 1 o'clock, the veterans and their families enjoying a sumptuous turkey dinner, faultlessly served. Afterward they enjoyed a campfire.

HOPKINS'S HOUSE NEARLY DESTROYED

By Fire Sunday—Water Pressure so Low That Even Pumper Could Not Do Effective Work—Loss Over $7,000.

A strong breeze and lack of water pressure when the firemen began work resulted in the practical destruction of the large residence of Samuel Hopkins at No. 36 Johnston avenue about noon on Sunday. The house was burned clean down to the attic floor, which collapsed, and parts of the side walls below that floor were destroyed. The entire interior was gutted.

Mr. Hopkins, who removed to Kingston from Brooklyn with his wife several years ago and purchased the Johnston avenue property, had built a fire in the fireplace in his library some time before the fire was discovered. Then he had taken his Sunday newspaper and was enjoying a sunbath on the front piazza when neighbors' boys noticed smoke and flames coming from the roof near the chimney. They notified Mr. Hopkins, who sent in a still alarm to Wiltwyck Hose Company a few minutes after eleven o'clock. By the time the firemen arrived, the entire top of the house was blazing. The fire was being fanned by a strong breeze and before hose could be stretched a sheet of flame was being blown from the house until it was stopped by the big trees which line the street.

Within two minutes from the time of the still alarm, an alarm was sent in from box No. 91, at Washington avenue and Main street, to which Excelsior Hose Company and the truck from the Central fire station responded. Meanwhile, sparks had been blown against the houses of William M. Davis and Samuel Gregg on the opposite side of the street, and the roofs of both houses caught fire. These incipient blazes were extinguished quickly without perceptible damage to either house. Quantities of sparks also were blown against the house of Judge James Jenkins, which is of brick construction and was not affected.

When the first line of hose was stretched by Wiltwyck Hose Company, lack of water pressure failed to carry the stream much higher than the roof of the piazza, and when the firemen carried the hose to the roof of the piazza, the stream barely reached the lower part of the blazing roof. Other lines of hose were attached to the pumping apparatus attached to the Central fire station truck, but by that time the central part of the roof had fallen in. Pressure was so low, however, that the pumping apparatus failed at times to give satisfactory service, the water spurting unsteadily just as if there was a quantity of air in the pipes.

The volunteer members of the fire department carried out much of the furniture and books from the lower floor before they were touched by the water, and most of the furniture thus saved was packed into a moving van which had been hastily summoned by telephone. The work of the firemen was hampered not only by the lack of water pressure but also by the dense quantities of smoke which filled the house. Several volunteers were almost overcome by smoke. The fire was not under control until after an hour's stubborn fight, and the "Fire out" signal was not sounded until after one o'clock.

The house was one of the largest among Johnston avenue. It was built a number of years ago by Thomas J. Cusack who occupied it for some time. Afterward he sold it to Mrs. Ella J. McGiffert who resided there a long time. Mr. Hopkins carried an insurance of $7,000, which will not cover the cost of replacement even with the lumber which can be salvaged.

MR. KNOPP HAS ANOTHER FALL

Augustus Knopp of 110 Huron street, Brooklyn, is in the Kingston City Hospital with a possible fractured skull as the result of a fall on Abeel street, near Broadway Sunday evening. The police department had received a telephone call that a man was lying on the sidewalk and officers Futum and Martin were hurried to the scene and brought him to the city hall where he was examined by Dr. Frederick Snyder and removed to the hospital. He was bleeding from the ears and nose and was also cut about the head. About a year ago Knopp sustained a fall downtown and was confined to the hospital for several weeks with a fractured skull.

As his watch and some money was still found on his person it is not thought that Knopp met with foul play but had been seized with a dizzy spell and fallen to the walk injuring his head.

ONE KILLED, ONE INJURED WHEN CAR LEAVES ROAD NEAR SAUGERTIES

Luther Vandermark Dies Almost Instantly and Norman Voedetee Is Cut and Bruised—Were Returning To Homes In Schenectady.

Luther Vandemark of Schenectady was fatally injured and Norman Voedtee of the same place had his hands cut and was considerably bruised when a Cadillac touring car owned and driven by Philip Nolan, also of Schenectady, was wrecked. The accident happened near Edward Everett's place, a quarter of a mile above the Katsbaan church, town of Saugerties, about 4:30 o'clock this morning. The touring car left the road at a turn where there was a small embankment, struck a telegraph pole which it cut off and pushed six feet and then struck a tree. Vandemark, who was sitting on the right side of the auto, had his neck broken and also his shoulder and died almost instantly. Nolan, the driver and owner, sitting at the left, was not hurt. Voedtee was seated in the middle of the front seat. The men were returning to Schenectady after spending Sunday at Saugerties where Vandermark has a brother, Frederick. The dead man was a drill press runner at one of the large Schenectady plants and was 35 years old and unmarried. Coroner W. N. Conner was notified and with Harry W. Valentine went quickly to the scene and made a thorough investigation. The body of Vandemark was turned over to Norman Lasher, undertaker.

GIANT TROUT COME OUT OF LAKE MOHONK

A recent Lake Mohonk Weekly Bulletin, says:

Almost everybody loves a good fish story—so here's one. Of course it isn't a very good one because it happens to be true; but it will be of interest to a good many guests who remember the doubts expressed during the past few years whether Lake Mohonk could possibly be stocked with trout considering the fact that bass and pickerel abounded in considerable numbers in its placid waters. C. I. Smith, in charge of the work, staked his reputation that lake trout could not only thrive, but that eventually they would exterminate the bass and pickerel.

That was three years ago. To be exact, it was on May 5th, 1920, that Mr. Smith placed in the lake the first lo of trout, reared elsewhere to a length of five or six inches, each, which was considered a sufficient guarantee against their becoming dainty morsels for the bass and pickerel. Other lots have been added from time to time, trout fishing meantime being prohibited to give the newcomers every possible chance.

On August 28th, Mr. Smith made a test, and in spite of the fact that at this season trout seek the deepest waters, in a little more than four hours of fishing he hooked nine trout and landed three of them—one 23½ inches long, weight 3½ pounds; one 19 inches long, weight 2¼ pounds; and one 27½ inches long, weight 4½ pounds.

Perhaps it was a bit unkind in Mr. Smith to make this test just as the season for trout fishing was coming to a close, but surely it holds alluring prospects for future seasons. It looks as if the time is coming when the rod and reel will be almost as important an item as the golf clubs in packing for Mohonk.

MISS ROOS TO CONTINUE GIRL SCOUT WORK HERE

At an important meeting of the Council of the Girl Scout organization in Ulster county, held last week, it was arranged that Miss Roos of the National Girl Scout organization, who has been doing such excellent work in this county the past few months, should be allowed to continue her work here on half-time. The national body will pay half of her salary, and the local organization will have to pay the other half which will amount to something between seven and eight hundred dollars. Shortly a movement will be put on foot to raise this fund. In the meantime the local council feel much satisfaction over the arrangement as Miss Roos has already created such an enterprising Girl Scout spirit in both the county and city, that even greater activity is promised for the future.

SEPT. 19 HOLIEST DAY OF JEWS

The Day of Atonement, or Yom Kippur is regarded by all Jews as the holiest day in the calendar of the Synagog. It will be observed from sunset Wednesday evening, September 19, to sunset on Thursday evening, September 20, in all synagogs of the world. On this day the most poignant and awe-inspiring litanies and prayers are recited. No other holyday of the Synagog has been endowed with quite such significance and solemnity.

In the Pentateuch the Day of Atonement is represented as a priestly ceremony wherein the high-priest of the Temple performed the important function of expiation for the sanctuary, the priesthood and, incidentally, the people. To the common people this day had no particular importance, beyond that attached to the Sabbath excepting the fact that they were to observe it as a fast day in order to obtain pardon for their sins.

There was in ancient times a primitive rite practiced in connection with Yom Kippur. Two goats were selected one of which was sent to Azazel, the demon of the desert, to bear away the sins of the people, while the other was offered as a sacrifice to the Lord. This rite was abandoned before the common era.

In the earlier setting Yom Kippur seems to have been a day of communion on the part of the high-priest with God. It was he who confessed his sins and those of the people and implored forgiveness. On this day it was believed that the high-priest actually beheld the Majesty of God. For it was on this day that he entered the Holy of Holies.

Against this background of priestly ceremonialism with its archaic forms of expiation the rabbis of the Synagog devised a Day of Atonement, that accorded with the message of the prophets. As a result of this new interpretation it was no longer possible for the high-priest to obtain forgiveness by sacrificial blood, incense or scapegoat. The only means by which the sinner obtained forgiveness was by repentance of his own accord and by his own resolution to return from the error of his ways and come again to God. As in the days of old the high priest of the Temple confessed his sins with a contrite heart, so now every son of the covenant of Abraham is enjoined to enter his house of worship and spend the day in meditation and prayer.

On this Day of Atonement each individual learns to approach God in true humility, imploring His pardon for sin, promising to amend his ways and make himself worthier as man and citizen.

The celebration of the Day of Atonement begins with a service known as Kol Nidre (all vows) which refers to vows concerning the individual and his conscience. The spirit of God is invoked at the beginning of the service to aid the penitent soul in improving its ways, since God's mercy alone cannot remove sin unless evil is uprooted from the heart and every wrong redressed in sincere repentance.

The universal character of the holyday is strikingly shown in the Afternoon Service. The scriptural selection is the book of Jonah which tells of God's all-forgiving mercy toward all the children of men.

A feature of the day is its Memorial Service. This service reminds the worshipper that while death awaits each one of us such death is not the end of all existence and is therefore not to be feared. Immortal life has been implanted within us and all who contribute to the good of humanity and thus hasten the advent of the Kingdom of God are not forgotten. Thus the living immortalize the dead by emulating their noble deeds.

SHIP FOUND ON AN ICEBERG

Another Unsolved Sea Mystery Added to the Long Catalogue of Tragedies.

"Mystery ships" have sailed the seas for centuries. Now the hulk of a vessel lost years before appears in some strange out-of-the-way place; now a familiar piece of deck work washes ashore in the night to tell of disaster and of lost hopes. All are tragedies, like the two following cases described in a recent magazine article—mysteries that probably never will be explained, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In 1911-12 the captain of the French bark Emilie Galline, homing from New Caledonia, reported on reaching Bordeaux that when rounding the Horn the ship had run into a vast field of great icebergs and that while groping its way into the open it passed a gigantic berg that, to the amazement of all hands, was carrying in a cleft a large three-masted schooner, partly dismasted but otherwise apparently intact with its boats still on the booms. The captain had made every effort to find the survivors but there were no signs of human beings on the iceberg.

A Greenland whaler out of Peterhead came upon a strange-looking derelict; the running gear and standing rigging were broken and flying loose; the canvas was in tatters and the hull was battered and weather-worn. The boats were gone. When men from the whaler boarded it they saw that it had been built early in the last century and had been icebound for many years. In the main cabin on the floor was the body of a young woman, perfectly preserved by the arctic frosts. Sitting near it and not far from the long dead fire was the body of a young man still holding in his hands a flint and steel, which he appeared to be striking. In one of the cabins of the cuddy was the body of another man; he was sitting in a chair, leaning back in a most natural position and had all the freshness of life in his attitude and expression.

The sailors could find no clews to the identity of the three.

Whistler, the artist, possessed to a remarkable degree the power of compelling devotion. He was always surrounded and waited upon hand and foot, writes Mr. Edwin A. Ward, the painter, in the Cornhill Magazine, by a group of young men, all clever in their different ways, who called him "master."

During his brief reign as president of the Society of British Artists he made a bold attempt to eliminate everything that was "British." When at last the sturdy old British members of the institution rebelled and eventually dethroned him he addressed his successor, Mr. Wyke Bayliss, as follows: "Well, Mr. Bayle," upon which Mr. Bayliss, not to be beaten, retorted, "there is one duty, Mr. Whistle, that you have forgotten to perform before vacating the chair, and that is to congratulate the new president"—which of course Whistler proceeded to do. Then with a wave of his hand, collecting his little band of stalwarts, he concluded: "And now the artists take their departure, and only the British remain."—Youth's Companion.

"Some" Voice.

In order to record native tunes, a West African native of giant stature was invited to sing into a phonograph. So powerful was his voice, however, that it wrecked the machine.

Folks, if the other fellow can, you can, because to the other fellow you are the other fellow.

Nobody is so solicitous for your future welfare as the fellow who is trying to let you in on something that he doesn't care to keep for himself.

Petition is a pecular thing. Most anybody can draw one up and everybody will sign it, and nobody pays any attention to it.

Paint for this garage less than $5.00

DO you know that you can give a garage like this (12'x20') two good coats of paint with 1¼ gallons of Certain-teed, making the paint cost less than $5? Give your garage the same attention you give your car. You can keep both looking like new with a little paint.

Certain-teed paint keeps your property from running down and decreases the average yearly depreciation by about one-half. Certain-teed shows its quality in three ways: it lasts longer, holds its color better, and covers more surface than ordinary paint.

Certain-teed paints excel in covering capacity, hiding power, and color retaining value. We know of no other paints offering such good value.

Plumes Are Valuable.

Ostrich feathers are either plucked by hand or cut from the wings whence come the most valuable plumes, says Nature Magazine. The annual feather crop of the average ostrich is worth from fifty to sixty dollars. The birds yield a crop of valuable feathers every seven months, although some breeders confine the plucking to a single harvest a year, as they claim that in this way they get better quality.

UP TO THE 10,000.

Of 15,236 persons who were enrolled as Republicans in Ulster county only 5,595 voted in the primaries last fall. Nearly 10,000 qualified voters neglected to go to the primaries and vote their choice, although an important issue was involved. Of the 5,595 who voted, 3,529 supported Congressman Ward and 2,066 were for Mr. Coons, who was opposing Mr. Ward on account of the Congressman having voted against the Volstead Bill

This year there are 13,120 persons enrolled as Republicans. The same issue is before them in the contest for nomination for Member of Assembly. A much stronger effort has been made by the Volstead Law worshippers this year than was made last year. More blatant and persistent misrepresentation of facts has been indulged in by them and the bigoted meddlers have been more active and daring in inventing and repeating misleading statements.

The contest last year was participated in by a small minority—only a trifle more than one-third of the qualified voters. Unless the sane, temperate, fair-minded people who want to be law-abiding, and who constitute a majority, but heretofore a silent majority, of the Republican party go to the primaries and vote this year there is grave danger that the party will be seized by a minority directed by intolerance and fanaticism.

It is up to the 10,000 who neglected to vote last year to do their duty on Tuesday. In their hands lies the future of the party.

LAW AND CONSTITUTION

All of the hysterical propaganda carried on by the squad of native and imported sob sisters of both sexes in this county against Assemblyman Van Wagenen is based on an alleged "nullification" of the Eighteenth Amendment The alleged act of "nullification" was a vote cast for the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law, which law was practically a copy of the Volstead Law, a few of the intolerable and needless features of which have been discussed in The Freeman recently.

The only persons not oppressed by the Volstead Law are those who, with more or less secrecy, violate it. The power to change this law lies with Congress Congress represents the people of the whole nation. The Legislature of the State of New York represents the people of the State of New York. The people of the State of New York believe the Volstead Law to be an unwise, tyrannical and unenforceable statute.

The Legislature expressed the will of the people it represents when it voted to repeal the Mullan-Gage Law, although all that was accomplished by that repeal was to lodge with the Nation an official protest against an outrageous law of Congress. It was the only form of protest that the Legislature of the State of New York could make. It did not "nullify the constitution," it did not even "nullify" the Volstead Law. Nor would amendment of the Volstead Law "nullify the constitution," as muddle-headed extremists assert it would.

Once more, for the benefit of thinking persons, we quote the exact words of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors, for beverage purposes, prohibited.—1. After one year from the ratification of this article the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to its jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

Congress and the several states given concurrent power to pass appropriate legislation to enforce the article.—2. The congress and the several states shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

Is there anything in the above quotation forbidding the manufacture of vinegar? Fixing one-half of one per cent of alcohol as the test of liquor being intoxicating? Setting the notions of a lot of cowardly politicians and frantic "reformers" above the knowledge of your physician? Forbidding and making it impossible for you to purchase liquor for use as a medicine? Declaring you a criminal if you give a dose of brandy to the victim of an accident? Declaring you a criminal if you carry a flask of whiskey with you on a journey? Or a hundred other innocent and necessary acts that most persons have been in the habit of performing?

THE LATEST REPEAL

Ulster county voters who are interested in Tuesday's primary contest for the Republican nomination for assemblyman have been furnished with another example of the efforts of non-resident managers of uplift and reform corporations to manage our affairs for us, the latest effort being put forth in "The Reform Bulletin," published at Albany by the Rev O. R. Miller, state superintendent of the New York Civic League. The entire issue of "The Reform Bulletin" is devoted to Ulster county.

Among the interesting statements printed by the Rev. O. R. Miller is one of the most barefaced lies ever attempted in a political campaign After referring to the action of the Republican county convention in postponing action on the Roberts resolution pending the designations for county officers, The Reform Bulletin says "Then after the designations had been voted upon, a call was made that the resolution should be considered, but the members of the convention, doubtless by the direction of the county machine, broke up in confusion, refused to vote upon the proposed resolution or even to consider it."

Freeman reporters who attended the convention know, as do the delegates and spectators, that when designations had been made, the chairman asked the convention what action it desired to take on the Roberts resolution, but there was no reply on the part of Miss Roberts, Delegate Weaver or anyone else. The facts were included in the report of proceedings published in The Freeman, and not even Delegate Weaver's memory has been at fault in regard to what happened. Neither Mr. Weaver nor Miss Roberts nor anybody else who attended the convention has made any such statement as the Rev. O. R. Miller puts out in his Reform Bulletin, which, by the way, he says is "Devoted to the interests of the moral reforms in the state of New York."

Judging by The Reform Bulletin itself, lying is not a moral issue in New York state. Has the Rev. Mr. Miller repealed the Ten Commandments?

An item of news from the coal strike region deserves more than passing comment It is reported that the morning after the strike was called prohibition enforcement agents visited about 1,000 saloons in the strike area, the bar equipment was removed, and the proprietors were ordered to discontinue the sale of liquor. What were those agents doing before the strike? Apparently they had such intimate knowledge of the location and character of those saloons that they could be called upon at a moment's notice and ordered to shut up shop. Why had it not been done before? Here is an opportunity for someone to investigate what appears to have been gross collusion between prohibition agents and the liquor interests

A commercial paper printed in New York City complains that farmers are buying cheap automobiles on credit and it fears that "large sums of the fluid credit of the country may be indefinitely tied up in luxuries which the farmers are ill-able to afford" But an automobile has become a necessity with the farmer. But, even if it were a luxury, hasn't the farmer as much right to it as the city resident?

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Can you tame a chaparral cock?
2. What is meant by an animal that is "feral?" I see this in books sometimes.
3. What is the biggest flower known?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. A bird nearly size of a robin came to my grape vine for shreds of bark for its nest, also took string I put out. Fawn color, two or three tiny specks of red on tip of wings; tip of tail lemon color; black around eyes and beak. What is it?

Unquestionably a cedar waxwing, Ampelis cedrorum. Didn't you note its head crest? This shows more on the male, and is not always erected. One of our prettiest birds. Usually travel in flocks, and will wheel from one tree to another, in concert. Rather late nesters, often not building until July.

2. What is sassafras bark tree good for? Does it cure any disease of the blood?

Sassafras belongs with the laurel group and like its relatives has in its soft parts tiny reservoirs of aromatic oil. This is used nowadays largely in perfumery and flavoring compounds; but it has also astringent powers and is somewhat tonic in effect when used as a drug. Used to be in great favor as a home-made tonic when the bark of the sassafras root was steeped and drunk.

3. Do animals have better pelts when caught in a severe winter than in a mild?

It isn't safe to say positively yes. Better fur is usually produced in cold weather, in response to its need to keep the body warm. But if the season is terribly cold, and the small prey on which fur-bearers feed, cannot themselves feed, but die off, the bigger animals may become partly starved and their coats in consequence not be prime.

YOUR FAMILY DOCTOR.

You have been feeling below par, no interest in your work, your meals or even life itself.

The logical thing to do was to go to your physician. After examining you, he states quite frankly and cheerfully that you are all right, there is no organic trouble and that you had better forget about it. Now this is excellent advice for the majority of people, because, if nearly normal, they will be reassured and get back to life and business with a new enthusiasm.

But it isn't enough for a great many people. The knowledge that there is no organic trouble is not sufficient for them. It does not stimulate interest in work or life with them.

What's the matter?

Well, they simply haven't told their doctor the whole story. What about the meals they eat, the sleepless nights, that big worry they are carrying around with them, that fear of physical or financial failure. Never a word of this to their doctor. Had they unbosomed themselves completely, as to their nearest and dearest friend, they would have given their doctor something to work on. Something that he understands almost as well as he does the body itself.

This is the age of specialists, and they have certainly made a place for themselves by their advanced knowledge and skill, but the family physician is really a more important personage than he ever was, because of his greatly increased general knowledge of medicine, and general knowledge also of man and his relation to life.

So when you go to your family physician for an overhauling, try to remember that he knows you and your family perhaps better than anyone else could. And further, tell him everything, as you would to your minister or priest.

This gives him every chance to help you.

CITY HALL FOLKS ENJOY "SHIVERS"

The cold spell of the past few days has made the city hall a most uncomfortable place in which to work, and today throughout the various offices city employes were busy starting fires in fireplaces that had not been used in years.

The heating plant in the building needs repairs before it can be started. This fact was reported to the building committee of the common council during the summer, but nothing has been done aside from having the boiler inspected. The first inspection developed a report that it would require expenditure of about $700 to place the plant in shape to be used this winter.

The building committee about two weeks ago had the plant inspected by a state department official, but what his report on the matter is is unknown.

While the building committee of the aldermen are thinking the matter over those who work in the building are laying bets as to which employe will be the recipient of the first severe cold.

(POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.)

Primary Day is Tuesday, September 18th and the polls will open at 12 noon and close at 9 p. m.

Upon the result will depend whether Ulster county will challenge the action of Governor Smith in repealing the Mullan-Gage law, which was made possible by the vote of Assemblyman Van Wagenen.

To see ourselves as others see us, read from the circular sent out by the superintendent of public schools in Sioux City, Iowa, the following paragraphs:

"Never since 1862 has anything occurred in the political and economic history of any state that should bring every citizen of the United States so quickly to his feet in the defense of the constitution, the nation and the flag as does this act of the governor of the state of New York.

"The issue before the world in the governor's action is not a question of prohibition. The issue is the supremacy of the constitution of the United States. If the action of the governor of New York state can stand unchallenged, the constitution of the United States is but a mere scrap of paper.

"Once before in the history of our country, a man on the Hudson attempted to sell his nation to its enemy. For years the name of Benedict Arnold has been upon the lips of every American citizen as bearing the title of supreme disgrace in American history. Another man on the Hudson would evidently sell the constitution of his country. Will New York state allow him to do so?"

New York state is the only state in the Union that has repudiated its responsibility to concur with the Federal government in the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, although it is one of the forty-six states that ratified.

So hard put to it are the supporters of this disgrace that they are manufacturing issues for the election that are the offspring of their own imagination. The question for the Republican voters to decide, is, will they vote for a man who will desert them at the last moment when voting on other questions vital to the government he swore to uphold?

To the voters we would say: Do your own thinking. Governor Smith and the whole legislature, joined together, have not the power to change the constitution. The only way it can be changed is by taking out the amendment, in the constitutional way it was put in, and not by repealing state laws and making the Empire state a laughing stock.

The people of the State of New York believe that party designations are not sufficient for a government by the people and decided to give the governed the right of decision as to choice of candidates at the primaries. Then let every voter use this privilege and wipe out New York state's disgrace by voting on September 18th for J. Wells Weaver and the constitution.

Announcing the 1924 Oakland "6"

It's Brand New-and True Blue

This True Blue Oakland was deliberately planned to be the most perfectly balanced, the most accurately engineered and the finest built light-six in the world.

Two years have been devoted to its design, manufacture and test. Two years—plus the wealth of Oakland experience gained through many other years of exclusive light-six manufacture and the limitless resources of General Motors.

From axle to axle—it's new! It embodies features of mechanical superiority—of beauty and comfort and performance—heretofore unheard of in cars of its price! Every single part—from the new engine to the new bodies—was designed and built to fit and function in perfect harmony with every other part.

And because it has been so carefully designed, so soundly built and so thoroughly tested—Oakland places upon it, without hesitation, the same written 15,000 mile engine performance guarantee and the same Mileage-Basis gauge of value that have proved the quality and the value and the excellence of Oakland cars for years!

Four-Wheel Brakes—New Engine—New Bodies!
Special Showing All Week—You Are Invited!

Come in and see this True Blue Oakland—built to be the finest light-six!

Study its exclusive features and you will marvel at the value built into this car at its new low price.

Test its four-wheel brakes—an outstanding safety achievement on a car of Oakland's price! Note how simple they are; learn why they require so much less attention than conventional two-wheel brakes.

Inspect the brand new engine—smoother, quieter and more powerful than even its highly successful predecessor, the Six-44.

See the new blue bodies built by Fisher. The top is permanent with new side curtains comparing in snugness and utility to the doors of a closed car. Controls are centralized on the steering wheel. Disc steel wheels are standard at no added cost.

See this new Oakland at our special showing this week! Don't miss the first public exhibition of this True Blue car—the latest and finest achievement of the Oakland Division of General Motors.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MOTHER NATURE

"You are very clever," said the fern to the cactus plant in the greenhouse.

The cactus had been telling the fern that the reason for all the prickles which it had on its leaves was to save the juicy stems from being eaten and destroyed by animals in the desert lands from which it and many of its family came.

"Oh, yes, we must have a protection if we're to grow, and in this way we're quite safe No one wants cactus burrs!"

"Of course I don't have the trouble that you do, for no one wants to eat me. So I do not need to be protected as you do."

"Well," said the cactus plant, "it is useful. I believe there are other creatures who do the same kind of thing as we plants—have some means of protection.

"There is the skunk for example. I've heard visitors who've come to the greenhouse talk about the skunk.

"He has a curious odor that people do not like—other animals dislike it, too, and that is his protection. He can spread this odor about when he is frightened or when he wants to be protected.

"I've heard some people say that they wondered how he stood it himself!

"Well, there is the hedgehog, who can roll himself up into a prickly ball when he is frightened. That is his protection.

"Yes, there are many, many creatures who 'wear' their protection.

"The poisonous snakes have their poison right with them

"Many little birds look like the woods in color so that they cannot be seen and some of the toads and frogs do, too."

"Ah, yes," said the fern; "all that you say is very true. But animals are different from plants.

"I think it is so particularly clever of you to be able to have protection such as you have and such very good protection when you're only a plant."

"Ah, fern," said the cactus plant, "you give me credit for more brains and sense than I have.

"All of this is owing to dear Mother Nature. She is the one who looks out for her children.

"She it is who saw that the cactus plants, or the Cacti as you speak of many of us, had prickles to save them from being destroyed.

"Yes, Mother Nature is the one who looks after us. She is not so busy that she hasn't time to remember all her children, every one."

Then a voice spoke.

"I didn't think I would hear anyone now," said the fern, "for our keeper has left for the day and the greenhouse is closed to people after the late afternoon has passed."

"I Wore My Summer Frock."

"I heard a voice; I most certainly heard a voice," said the cactus.

And again they heard the voice more clearly.

'Oh, Mother Nature!" they all shouted "Darling Mother Nature."

"There, there," said Mother Nature, "if you make such a fuss over me I will cry with joy I'm glad little Violet made me a yellow and a purple and a blue handkerchief. For even though I have three handkerchiefs I may have to use them all."

Mother Nature wore a beautiful cape made of leaves, which was trimmed with a collar of summer flowers.

Her hat was of garden flowers and edged with a tiny border of little woodland wild flowers.

Her shoes were of moss and her dress was of soft, long green grasses and wheat and rye and barley intermixed.

"I wore my summer frock today of course," she said, as her greenhouse children admired her.

"I'm glad you like it. But, children, you were praising me for watching over you.

"I do not deserve any praise for that. I cannot help but watch over you. I love you—a mother who doesn't love her children is a very, very strange creature!

"Mother Nature isn't strange like that. She loves all her dear ones and she does what she can for them. It is only natural, only natural!"

Peyote is a drug taken from a plant related to the mescal of Mexico. It affects the nerves in somewhat the same fashion as opium or cocaine. # PROTECT THE SCHOOL CHILDREN

In last week's health talk broadcast Friday night from the General Electric Company's station WGY at Schenectady, Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., New York State Commissioner of Health urges, parents to have their children protected against diphtheria by the administration of toxin-antitoxin mixture and tells how the spread of the disease in schools is being prevented through general application of this protective measure. One of the worries of parents whose children are entering school arises from the fear that they will be exposed to contagious diseases, diphtheria usually being most dreaded..

"Last year, in this state," said Dr. Nicoll, "there were over 18,000 cases of this disease and 1,400 deaths, mosts of the deaths being among children under seven. This is a rather astounding statement, when you stop to think that we have at our disposal, if we will only use it, a safe and practically certain preventive, which is commonly spoken of as toxin-antitoxin mixture.

"Fortunately, in progressive communities, the danger is becoming less from year to year. School officials, including the school physician and nurses, are becoming convinced of the wisdom of protecting children against diphtheria and, if they can get the parent's permission, are giving toxin-antoxin mixtures to all school children entering the lower grades. At the same time they are doing many other things to prevent the spread, among children, of this and other diseases. If they can have the active cooperation of parents, the school can be made at least as safe a place as the home,—certainly much safer than the street.

"A child who has been given toxin-antitoxin mixture,—a simple procedure, is protected during the danger period and probably for life. A school in which all of the children are thus protected,—"immunized," as we say,—never has diphtheria epidemics to contend with.

"We have, so far, been emphasizing the importanace of protecting school children but the children under school age are really most susceptible to diphtheria and most often die of it. They need protection as least as much as do the school children. So it is not advisable to wait for the child to go to school, nor, if he is in school is it necessary to wait until the school authorities ask for permission to protect your child. Have your family physician give the toxin-antitoxin mixture. It should be given at any time after the child is six months old. The doctor can get the toxin-antitoxin mixture from the state laboratory or through one of its numerous supply stations.

In spite of our eighteen thousand cases of diphtheria last year, we are by no means discouraged. Health workers, school officials, physicians and parents are beginning to pull together; it is not too much to hope that, with the development of good "team work" diphtheria may not only be kept out of school, but wiped out completely."

MAYBE SOMEBODY MADE A MISTAKE, SAYS WEAVER

Highland, N. Y., Sept. 17, 1923.
To the Editor of The Freeman:

Mr. Eckert, in his testament in The Freeman of Saturday night, does not deny that there were errors in the letter sent out by the Republican County Committee to the enrolled Republican voters of Ulster county; and it will furnish food for thought that where one error exists there is a possibility that others exist likewise, and they will not be misled as to the real issue, which is not any Ward-Frooks contest. I am perfectly willing to stand on the record of my life, lived here in Ulster county as a consistent "dry." My attitude is perfectly well known to the committee as well as to the Republicans throughout the county. Since errors have been shown to be not impossible, it is within possibility that my vote appears incorrectly on the convention records.

Miss Van Keuren, who was born in Kingston and spent the years of her childhood and young girlhood in this city was a woman of sterling Christian character, unselfish to a degree and devoted to the family of which she was a loved and esteemed member for over twenty-five years, coming to the home of her brother, the late James G. Van Keuren after the death of his wife. For seventeen years previous to her return to Kingston, Miss Van Keuren, who during her later years was affectionately called "Aunt Delia," by a host of friends, was the efficient and loved matron of Hartford Orphan Asylum, Hartford, Conn. Dr. Ellis paid a fitting and fine tribute to the memory of Miss Van Keuren, who shortly after her return to Kingston became a member of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, of which church she was always a loyal and devoted member, and her long life of service to others was thus made emphatic and openly appreciated. Always interested in young people, Miss Van Keuren had kept her youthful spirit and it was hard to realize that eighty-eight summers had rolled over her head, as her many friends said farewell to her. ### Accommodating Terminology.

"There are a dozen different names for this new Chinese game."

"Quite properly," said Miss Cayenne. "Different people I know play it a dozen different ways."

Best Cigar-Box Wood.

Kalantas, a Philippine wood, is practically identical with Spanish cedar from tropical America, which for ages has been regarded as the best cigar-box wood in the world

REWRITING THE HOLY WORD

Dutch Historian Explains Why He Has Undertaken the Task—Makes Appeal to the Masses.

Fancy the nerve a man must have to suggest that our grand old Bible should be rewritten.

And yet Dr. Hendrick Willem van Loon, famous Dutch United States historian, has undertaken this task, very seriously and reverently indeed.

He explains: "I firmly believe that 90 per cent of the world's Christian population never look at the Bible. After all, it contains nearly two million words and much of it is written in a language which only the educated man can understand.

"My book, which I have called 'The Story of the Bible,' only contains 120,000 words, and the whole of it is written in the simplest language.

"In the States, and probably the whole world over, there are a large number of the working classes who want to learn. But until they find something that they can easily understand they are at a loss where to start.

"It is true that my way of retelling the old story may rob it of some of its charm, but I have tried to be reverent throughout, while all the time speaking in a language that is easily understandable.

"This work has taken me nearly two years and I have spent much labor and thought on it. I feel confident that the result will not only appeal to the masses, but it may induce them to study the Bible for themselves."—Exchange.

HABITS OF FALL WEBWORM

The familiar ugly brown patches which appear on trees in the city, orchard and forest in the fall are the work of the fall webworm, whose habits and life history have been thoroughly studied by R. E. Snodgrass of the United States bureau of entomology. These little worms, which are the progeny of a small, night-flying white moth, construct bags of glistening silk among the foliage in the spring and begin to eat the leaves inclosed in their houses. As the leaves are consumed, the houses must be expanded to cover more food, until at length brown patches of several feet in extent appear in the trees. The author gives many interesting details of the life cycle of this little creature from the time the moth lays its eggs on a leaf, through its various stages of development as a worm, until it spins a cocoon and goes into confinement only to change to a pupa, then a chrysalis and finally emerges a full-fledged moth.

In concluding, the author speculates as to whether or not such insects have any so-called intelligence. "Can the caterpillars have appetites, a sense of touch, fear of danger, and show resentment at an interference with their natural rights without some consciousness at least of their own existence?"

What Insulin Is.

Much has been said in the newspapers lately about "insulin," the new remedy for diabetis discovered by Dr. F. G. Banting, of Toronto University, but few people know exactly what it is.

Insulin is an extract of fresh healthy beef pancreas, a solution of the internal secretion of the pancreas of the ox. The extract is made by soaking the fresh organ in a mixture of alcohol and diluted hydrochloric acid. One reason for choosing this solvent is that while it dissolves the internal secretion, the external secretion (whose chief constituent is trypsin and which is of no value in the present connection) is left undissolved. The solution so made is sterilized. Insulin has caused sugar varying in quantities from 2 to 7 grammes to be utilized in various patients per diem The effect, apparently, is evanescent and lasts only eight or nine hours, so that injections are necessary every day.

Crossed Shoes Cure Cramps.

My mother suffered at night with cramps in her feet and ankles. One day a sewing-woman told her that if she would cross her shoes when she took them off she would have no more trouble. My mother tried it, and we all laughed and teased her whenever we saw her little crossed shoes, although she assured us that the cramps had departed. Some time afterward, in the upper berth of a sleeping car, I was seized with a violent cramp in my right foot. I was undressed and could not get down to go to the dressing room, because it was early and people were walking about the aisle. Meantime the pain became unbearable. Suddenly I thought of crossing my shoes which lay near. I crossed them and the cramp magically disappeared. —Chicago Journal.

And After That.

"Been to Iceberg beach?"

"Down where the sea has a permanent wave, eh?"

"Exactly."

"I suppose you were engaged to a summer girl?"

"I was."

"There is a theory that summer girls are very fickle."

"Oh, I don't know," responded Hoffy. "Mine stuck to me as long as I had money for rolling chairs and ice cream soda."

Coal Tar Derivatives.

Chemists say that the time is approaching when natural dyestuffs, such as madder and indigo, will no longer be needed. For almost every one of them substitutes have been obtained from coal tar, and most of them are actually superior to the dyes used by the last generation.

LION'S COMPANY UNPOPULAR

While a circus was in Indianapolis recently R. B. Dean, publicity director for the shows, went to the city hall, accompanied by a dangerous looking mountain lion, to pay a visit to Mayor Shank.

As Dean and the lion entered the front doors of the city hall, some one informed Dean that the mayor could be found in his office on the second floor. At the moment both of the elevators were standing at the first floor, their colored operators waiting for passengers.

"I guess we will ride up," Dean remarked.

Suddenly the door of one of the elevators was closed with a bang and the operator shot the machine upward, though his signal bell had sounded no call. He had heard Dean's remark.

Dean and the lion approached the other elevator and entered. The operator tried to appear unconcerned. As he stopped at the second floor Dean remarked, "Let me off here."

"Yes, sir," the operator said, as he hastily opened the door, "I'll let you both off here."

And after Dean and the lion had completed their visit in the mayor's office and had started to leave the building, both of the elevators were conspicuous for their absence at the second floor landing. Dean walked downstairs, the lion treading after him.—Indianapolis News.

ADDITION TO ART TREASURES

A portrait of Stradivarius has been found. No picture of the great master had ever been identified and his face has remained a mystery for nearly 200 years. The portrait, which the experts who have so far examined it declare genuine, has come into the possession of a Cremona piano maker, who has always had the greatest interest in Stradivarius. He found the portrait in the possession of a certain professor, who had bought it from a Geneva antiquary but who kept its existence secret. The portrait, signed by the painter Gialdisi, bears the name of the maestro and the date 1691. Stradivarius is portrayed as a stern Cromwellian type, with flashing dark eyes and flowing hair. He is shown holding one of his famous violins against his breast. The interior evidence of the painting all corresponds to the contemporary descriptions of Stradivarius, none of which have been in harmony with various paintings which have wrongly been thought to represent the great violin maker.

"Before I Die."

To endow "before I die some sort of green place where little street urchins could play cricket, all accessories provided," was one of the dreams of Herbert Jenkins, London publisher. He began life at fifteen in a bookseller's shop. He and another boy used to sit up half the night devouring books. That boy was the poet, John Masefield. Walking to save a penny omnibus fare, refusing an invitation to a river picnic because of a sixpenny railroad fare, lunching on a bun—this is the picture of his early twenties, as he many times described it. In 1911, when he was about 36, his "Life of George Borrow" first brought him into public view. He has just died after building up a great publishing business.

YANKEES NEED ONE GAME TO CLINCH FLAG

The Yankees woke up today to find that they need only one more victory to clinch the American League pennant for the third time.

They have sixteen more games to play. Even if the Indians, 18½ games in the rear, win all of their remaining 21 games, they cannot overhaul the Yankees if the latter chalk up another victory.

The Giants still are finding the going rough. Today they lead the Reds, who regained second place, by four games, and are 4½ games ahead of the Pirates. The Giants however, can play a little better than .500 baseball, while the Reds and Pirates must play 1000 per cent, to overhaul them.

If the Giants win seven of their remaining 13 contests, the Reds must win 12 of their 13 games to pass them while in this event the Pirates can win the pennant with 15 victories in their sixteen remaining games.

COLONIALS BLANK TANNERSVILLE

Saturday At Fair Grounds 5 to 0—See Hurls Excellent Ball In Deciding Game of Series—Robins Hit Homer.

The Colonial baseball team further established its supremacy over semi-pro teams by blanking the Tannersville team Saturday at the Fair Grounds 5 to 0. This was the deciding game of the series between these teams. Manager Dolan's team put up a very good fight this season, having five wins over the Colonials in the eleven game series.

Chad See figured very prominently in Saturday's contest when he allowed the strong mountaineer combination but three hits and was the only player to have more than one hit to his credit. See performed very brilliantly playing field for the local club this year, but his pitching in this game was a real treat.

A small crowd was in attendance to see this struggle, which was one of the best staged here in some time. Deetjen was again Dolan's choice and as usual pitched good ball, allowing the local club six hits, one a scratch. For five innings the batters of both teams were unable to make a hit. In but one of the first five innings did over three men face See and the one frame was due to a walk. In the fourth inning it looked good for Tannersville but a sweet double play did the trick. In this inning Alexander started and was safe when Russel booted. Dugan followed with a sacrifice putting Alexander on second. Raskin, a dangerous hitter, was next, he hit hard to McCue, who threw him out at first. Coyle then very quickly threw back to McCue catching Alexander at third. Perfect throws did the stunt. In the sixth Tannersville broke the ice making the first safety of the contest. Wilcox started hitting one to right field. In the visitors' last inning two more hits were made, one by Alexander, the other by Simon. During the full game but one of the visitors reached third base, this being in the last inning.

Colonials.

After Julius Dolan's aggregation spoiled See's chances for a hitless game the Schirickmen became peeved in their half of the same inning and destroyed Deetjen's possibilities of both a hitless and a scoreless game.

Jack Robins started and drew a pass. Russel followed with a bunt down the first base line, which went for a scratch hit, because McCarthy did not field the ball in the event that it might roll foul, but he was sadly mistaken. This was the local club's first hit. Both first and second were covered. Driscoll loaded the bases when his hit to third base was booted. Deegan knocked in the first run but was thrown out at first, Simon to Alexander. Kelly Herbst hit a long sacrifice fly scoring the second run. McCue ended the inning, Simon to Alexander.

Robins Hits Homer.

The local club was not satisfied with two runs and only one hit so the main fireworks began in the seventh. See started the inning with number one hit to right field. Coyle was next with a sacrifice. William Schwab then sent one of his very special deliveries to left field. See didn't score on this hit but stayed at third. Schwab pretended to run to second and See scored much to the surprise of the visitors, when they threw to second. Schwab stole second and was safe at third when Porter missed the throw. Schwab was later caught at home on an attempted squeeze. The next run was scored by Robins who smote one over the left field fence for the circuit. In the eighth inning the fifth run was scored when two hits and a walk featured.

A right smart finish of a series was the unanimous opinion of the spectators. Dolan's valediction was "We'll be back next year." Lackey had a grievance with the emprire and almost settled it on Sunday.

The score.

COLONIALS CRAWL BACK IN RING

The fighting spirit of the Colonials was again displayed Sunday afternoon at the Fair Grounds when, out for revenge, they rained base hits to the delight of the many overcoated customers who witnesed the contests. The opposition was Larry Doyle's Glens Falls Sluggers, who administered two severe trimmings to the Colonials at the upstate diamond last Wednesday and Thursday. This and nothing else was the cause for the fierceness of the Schirickmen.

The local club put the finishing touches on this job when they crushingly defeated the upstate team in a double header. The first game was 8 to 1, the second of seven innings' duration, 9 to 3.

A total of twenty-five base hits were slammed by the local club during the afternoon. Raskin, McCue and Coyle came in for the biggest slices of the turkey, they each having four to their credit Deegan and Dugan were next with three each. Fourteen safe blows were smote in the first game, thirteen off Brown in seven innings and one off Stuart in one inning. The remaining eleven blows were gathered off Buckley in the seven innings in the final game.

The Glens Falls team had fifteen hits to its credit for their day's work. Six of these were made off Culloton's offerings in the initial struggle, the remainder off McIntyre in the nightcap.

The local club gave a wonderful exhibition of fielding during these games, but one error being made by the local club. This was chalked up against Russell in the last contest. Three errors were made by the vistors, all coming in the final game.

The Opening Game.

Bud Culloton was given a chance to get another crack at the team that hit him hard upstate and he hurled fine ball. Six scattered hits went to Doyle's men. In the last frame they scored their only tally.

McCue and Coyle led the attack in this game each boosting their batting averages, when they got three hits apiece. Coyle hit perfectly being at bat three times. For three innings the defense of the visitors was unbroken but the next frame See started with a walk, Raskin sacrificed, McCue hit for two bases followed by Coyle with a three bagger and Robins with a sacrifice fly, scoring three runs. In the fifth Culloton opened with a blow followed by blows by Deegan and Dugan. See sacrificed and was followed by Raskin and McCue each with safeties, these five bingles scoring four runs. The locals last run was made in the seventh when Raskin started off with a two bagger and later scored when McCue hit safely again followed by Coyle's third safe crack, going for two bases.

Glens Falls lone score in the eighth came after they found Culloton for two safe blows the only inning they solved him for over one safety. Farrell opened with a hit for two bases and came home on another two base hit by Barnes.

The Second Game.

Play was resumed immediately following the closing of the first game. This game lasted for seven innings, Doyle realizing at this time that it was useless to try and head the local club. McIntyre was the pitcher for the locals, being secured by the local management to relief the much worked pitching staff of the local representatives. McIntyre was hit frequently and hard during the game but remarkable catches and stops by his backers drew him out of a couple of holes. The Glens Falls team hit safely nine times in this contest and crossed the plate three.

The Colonials did not weaken in this contest but just kept up the bombardment for eleven safe blows. See, Raskin and Robins featured with the willow each making two safe blows. One of Raskin's clouts went for three bases. The Colonials would have built up a much bigger record in hitting and scoring if the game continued they being at bat just six frames.

The very first inning, the local sluggers got to Buckley, the pitcher who shut them out in Glens Falls. Dugan started with a walk and was safe at second when Deegan sacrificed. See was next with his first hit. Raskin followed and was safe on the first error of the day Dugan scored the first run when he stole home Papryus would sit up and take notice if he saw the speed of his boy Sunday. In the next inning blow after blow drove in five runs. Hits by Robins, Dugan, See and McCue together with walks to McIntyre and Raskin netted the five runs. The remaining three runs of the Colonials were made in the fourth, fifth and sixth.

The Glens Falls team scored its first run in the third inning, when a walk and a two base hit did the work. In the fifth inning three safeties accounted for a run. The third and last run was made in the sixth when three more hits and the first error of the day by the local club figured.

Winning these games the Colonials are put on an even standing with the fast club from upstate. The Colonials again put in a very strong bid for semi-pro laureis in this section.
